

About

I'm a Data Scientist with a versatile scientific background, thanks to my studies in physics & blockchain technologies and my experience as a fullstack developer.

In my spare time I teach physics and mathematics to High School students as a freelancer.

A curiosity about me: I was a professional trained cook (also experienced in restaurant reception) as I studied Hospitality in High School.

That allowed me to work abroad while I was teenager, granting me memorables experiences with several people of different cultures.
